

From: NEW YORK

To: MOSCOW

Nos.: 793,794

25 May 1945

[Part I] To VIKTOR(i).

While he was on a working visit [KOMANDIROVKA][a] to TIRE[TIR][ii] "BROWa"[iii] met "ARSENij"[iv][C% who][1 group unrecovered] in a conversation about the fact that B.[iv] had been intercepting letters originating in CARPAGE[KARFAGEN][v], interesting in that they contain intelligence [C% information] from [1 group unrecovered]. In view of the fact that he said that letters were involved it is possible that try to reconcile his help to us and feeling of patriotism for his own country.

[47 groups unrecovered]

[48 groups unrecoverable]

[D% their] factory began production of 25 mobile guns [USTANOVKI][b] intended for use against tanks.

[Part II] ~~Some~~ Besides this there was developed by the Manufacturer
[19 groups unrecovered]

Oxygen Generating [c]

[48 groups unrecoverable]

[38 groups unrecovered]

No. 488
25 May

ANTON(vi)

Notes: [a] KOMANDIROVKA, literally "mission".
[b] USTANOVKI, literally "mountings" but often extend to mean the mountings and the guns.
[c] Given in the Latin alphabet.

Comments:

- [i] VIKTOR: Lt. Gen. P.M. FITIN.
- [ii] TIR: New York City.
- [iii] BROWa: i.e. "ARMOR," formerly "StAMP." A possible candidate who has been suggested for this cover-name is [redacted] an employee of the Bell Aircraft Corporation first at Buffalo, New York (1940-1943) and later at Burlington, Vermont (from 1944), from which latter place he frequently visited New York City in connection with his employment.
- [iv] ARSENij: Andrej Ivanovich SNEVCHENKO.
- [v] KARFAGEN: Washington, D.C.
- [vi] ANTON: Leonid Romanovich KYASHLIKOV.